Class of 1904, W. H. S., Has Reunion

at South Coventry.

Seventeen mambers of the class of 1904, W. H. S., participated in a most enjoyable reunion at South Coventry Tuesday. The party left this city in automobiles and went to the home of A. E. Peterson on Ripley hill, where they spent a couple of hours. Mr. Peterson was at one time principal of the school.

Peterson was at one time principal of the school.

Adjournment was then taken to the lake shore, where an elaborate dinner was served that was followed by informal speech making.

A sail on the lake was enjoyed and then the return trip home in autos fittingly concluded the day's outing.

Among those whe attended were Miss Elsie Marsh of Mansfield, Miss Bertha Latham of Columbia, Miss Helen Wood of South Coventry, Miss Carrie Angell of Putnam, Miss Ruth Waldo of Southand, Miss Marion Alford, Miss Florence Grant, Maurice Palmer and Harry Staebner of this city, Miss Miriam Barstow of Windham, Herbert Card of South Windham, Herbert Card of South Windham, J. R. Foster of Storrs, Fred Potter of North Windham, Eugene Latimer of South Coventry, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Manning of North Franklin. The invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Peterson of South Coventry, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Elliott and Attorney Gurtis Dean of this city.

POULTRYMEN'S FIELD MEETING aught to a Suscessful Close on Wed-nesday-Interesting Addresses.

The Connecticut Poultrymen's association concluded a highly successful field meeting at the Connecticut agricultural college at Storrs Wednesday noon, after three unusually good addresses had been delivered during the forsnoon to an appreciative audience of upwards of two hundred people.

Addresses delivered by F. J. Lanty of Pennsylvania, who spoke on Mineral Elements in Fowl Nutrition; Dr. L. F. Rettger of New Haven, who discoursed on the subject of White Diarrhoea of Chicks, and D. J. Lambert of the Rhode Island college of agriculture at Kingston, who cleverly handled The Poultry Fancier. Taken as a whole, the meeting may be said to have been the most successful in the association's history and much good will of necessity accrue to all who had the opportunity of being present at the different sessions.

Danielson is not going to run short of ice this summer, at least not to any of ice this summer, at least not to any great extent. There is enough on hand to carry the trade through August, and after that time the demand is apt to be much less than during the real hot weather. The ice stored at the lake and at East Killingly last winter is standing the heated term well and good solld ice is being delivered about the borough every day. The opportunity to get ice is better than it was expected to be last winter.

BROOKLYN TAX COLLECTOR Has Collected All the Tax Every Year During His Seven Years' Service.

Speaking of tax collectors. John B Bessette, who fills that often unpleas ant berth across the bridge in the town of Brooklyn, has made a record of effiant berth across the bridge in the town of Brooklyn, has made a record of efficient service that is so extraordinary as to merit for him a decoration as the star tax collector of the state of Connecticut. About this time every year an item makes its appearance in the newspapers telling how Mr. Bessette goes out and gets the money—goes out and gets the money—goes out and gets it all. Whoever owes taxes in the town of Brooklyn might as well pay first as last, for they are bound to pay. Seven years ago, when Mr. Bessette took the office, he established a record of collecting all the money the list called for. That got his name in the papers. The next year he repeated the feat, and again the next each year it has attracted additional attention. This year he has done just a little better than any year before; he has collected more money than the list called for, less the abstragents and errors in making the list. He was able to do this by finding two estates that were not on the tax list as handed to him for collection. The grand list calls for the collection of 114,362 this year, and all but 140 of that amount is now paid. This shortage is due to abstract and errors, but will be more than baianced by the collections on the two estates found by the collector.

Mr. Bessette said Wednesday that he had not lost a dollar of taxes assessed on real estate in the town of Brocklyn during the time he has been in office. No man escapes him, and the women who pay taxes have no better chance. Evasion, hard luck stories, pleading, friepdanip, relationship, religious or political affiliations, threats or any other method of subterfuge does not appeal to him or move him when he is out getting the money to run the town. The only way to be rid of him is to pay, and pay promptly. He is such a collector as is born once a century. He is not harsh in methods, nor is he unfair nor overbearing. He goes about his work in a businesslike way and does it 100 per cent, perfect, regardless of any obstacle that is placed in his way.

Sometimes people try to fake him.

Sometimes people try to fake him. sometimes they run away; but he gets them just the same. This year it cost one young man $25 trying to evade paying a poll tax of $2. In the end he paid. If the taxpayers do not come and see Mr. Bessette he goes and sees them. He is always on the job and the person who wants to live in the town of Brooklyn and at the same time owe it money does not exist.

SEWER TERMINAL To Be Changed-Work on Construction to Begin Scon.

The warden and court of burgesses will this week advertise for bids for the construction of the new sewer and the building of the new terminal line of pipe to carry the sewage from all the borough to a point in the Quinebaug river below the mill of the Quinebaug company.

The investigation of the matter of a change of sewer terminal has been made, according to the instructions of the last special borough meeting and the decision to change arrived at. The report of the borough officials will not be made, however, until September, when a special borough will be talted. Plans for two routes are in the hands of the sewer committee, giving a choice of building the terminal line from the foot of Maple street through Franklin and into and down Dyer street, or over the Franklin street course as far as the Hutchins tavern and then down through the land of the quinebaug company, in the rear of Dyer street, past the Cold Spring to the last special borough meeting and the decision to change arrived at. DAYVILLE GAME Opposed by Manager Benoit-Would Hurt Local Patronage.

Manager Benoit of the Danielson team of the Eastern Connecticut league is up in arms over the proposition to permit Williamsville and Manchaug to play on the grounds of the Dayville league team next Saturday while Danielson and Dayville are battling against each other on the local grounds. Manager Benoit figures that such an arrangement would hurt the local patronage and also that it is up to the league teams to protect each other. He says that he will seek to have the game cancelled or transferred, or that, failing to do this, he will consent to have Wauregan and Jewett City to transfer their game of Aug. 7th to Danielson while Dayville is playing at home.

to such an arrangement and the Dan-ielson fans would be just as glad to see the two teams mentioned play a game in this town.

Manager Benoit is not a bit pleased at what he considers an unfair arrangement with Williamsville by Dayville, but he figures that if the game is played at the latter place on next Saturday he will be justified in going out and getting even by transferring the game mentioned for Aug. 7 to Danielson.

New Pitcher for Danielson. Manager Benoit of the Danielson team has signed a new pitcher for that club in Walter Manning of Hartford, well known as a box artist on shop teams in that city, Mr. Benoit has secured his new man in preparation for a possible emergency, as Boucher has of late seemed inclined to make trouble. The new man will pitch his first game against Dayville Saturday.

prizes, and, as usual, he scored a big hit.

The show was of the regular Ringling ting-a-ling three rings and two elevated stages variety, with about 37 acts going on at the same time. But that did not bother "Souvenir." If the bables cried—very few were go thoughtless—he was on the spot with a flag or a button or a purse or a tiny doll or some one of a half dozen other little gimeracks that had them smiling again in a minute. He kept every one good natured and gave every mother the feeling that her baby was a prize winner—and it was!

The bables were representative of about every place on the trolley line between Moosup and North Grosvenordale. They were as fine an aggregation to do credit to any section and were admired and petted while they stayed in the park.

The difficult task of judging the bables for the prizes was allotted to Mrs. Charles H. Blake of Brooklyn, Mrs. B. C. Hopkins of Danielson and Mrs. W. H. Taylor of Putnam. The awards were finally agreed upon as follows:

Class I.—Most beautiful babies—
